FRIDAY EVENING, DEC'R. 31, 1880

To the patrons and readers of the Gazette We extend the compliments of the season and wish them one and all a happy New Year and many

Yet a few hous and 1880 will be no marforever. The solemn beils will have told out its requiem to the silent stars, and changing 10 notes of gladness will have peaked forth a j your welcome to 1881. So pass our fives away. To day we tread the stage of life, confident that no other could do our part in life's perplexing drams; to morrow we will make our final exit and the world will fail to miss us. Another scene will open, other actors will come forth, and men will soon forget that we ever eccapied a place in the theatre of action. Did the cur tain fall upon us forever, we might well ask, why have we ever appeared at all? but, thanks to that Almighty Power which has placed us here, the pages of revelation are open to u', and they disclose a brighter scene than our imaginations can compass—the reward of having neted well our parts below. "Be just and fear not" was the advice of one who "trod the ways of glory and sounded all the depths and shoals of honor," and that advice is as good for us as it was for the followers to whom he gave it. This world is fall of opportunities for doing good as well as evil, and if we embrace them not, the fault will be our own. Higher clean and undefiled before God and the Father is thu: to visit the fatherless and the widows in her chest, and she did in the greatest agony. their tribulation; and to keep one's self usspot ted from this world." All around us are the stituted a suit for damages against saveral widows and the fatherlises, and those to whom the merciful hand of God's inscrutable providence has brought affi ction and suffering. The deep snows over which the gliding sleighs fly swiftly, have penetrated many a decaying root and piled themselves round many a cheerles. dwelling, The bitter cold which we ward off by soft curtains and downy curpets, freezes mary a little foot as it treads the naked floor; there are hearths among us on which no cheer. ful firelight glows and tab'es from which no ofer of savory food rises. Many a fellow creature gas supperless to bed, to shiver through the long, lonely hours of darkness under the thinest of coveriets. "How shall we hope for mercy rendering none?" If the past his found us wanting in our ch'y to God and our fellow men, let us bury it to night deep beyond resurrection, and for the joy bells which midnight exceed pleasure and advantage from a daily cold will hear call us to a new and better life. When bath have to discontinue the practice is come. the first sun of 1881 gilds the glittering snow, | Months will clapse before the return of genial let us arise from our beds of selfish case and weather will allow of their indulgence in what see what we can do for the sufferiog poor. REVISION OF THE BIBLE -The reception which should be given to the revision of the English Bible is more and more a sulject of discussion in Great Britain and the United States, and is a matter to which one could hardly say that too much thought could be devoted. As our readers know, this revision ap proaches empletion and has been in charge of scholars taken from all denominations embraced in the wide spread communion which b. heves that the Scriptures should be read by every people in its own tongue and not confined to a dead or a foreign language.

Every guarantee, indeed, has been given that the new Bible shall differ from the current vercion only on such points where the learned in vestigations of the last two hundred years have proved that the text departs from the real and proper translation of the Hebrew, the Greek, the Spring Greek and the Latin, in which tongues its record is found. Every guarantee has been given that the new B ble will not and cannot lean to any scotarian view drawn from the current Bible, but has not only gone back to the original source of the text, as would be the case in a translation of a secular writer, but has also explored the sources them selves and desided where, as is the case in a

made by unknown hands. We are assured on all hards that the new throughout, except when obvious reasons to the contrary preveil, that original English phraseology and verbal force which have made our Bible so remarkable an aid and authority in the fixity of our English speech, and which has so wonderfully contributed, to the idiomatic agreement of our language as used at once by learned and unlearned, gentle and simple, child and man; aiding, too, if not creating, that unparalleled general knowledge of the szcred books which makes English speaking peoples altogether unique among the nations. The appearance of the new version will be awaited with the greatest interest and accepted with endour as marking a new point of depar cure, if not in religion, which indeed may not be vitally touched, but certainly in literature and in the development of English speech.

COLD BATHS IN WINTER. -The season the year when many people who have experius conscorate the day to works of charity, and Among the young and robust there are a large number who are able to bathe even in the depths of winter. The advantage of so doing carries a fan before her fece, even when return is, however, questionable. But let it be once well understood what a cold bath really is and the course by which they can avoid Scila and the Lancet, is not necessarily a bath in water of the temperatue of the atmosphere. A bath is ship. She has her own especial riding estab truly and realis cold when it produces a c rtain lishment, and here she reigne supreme. Sac physiological effec:-a slight momentary shock, will drive a tandem team before her at a relent followed by pleasant and lesting reaction. These effects are for the majority of people most pleasantly obseized by backing in water about 35 to 40 degrees below the temperature of the body-the usual temperature of unheated water in June and July. Bearing this in mind, people can erjig their physiological "cold" bath as sa'cly and pleasantly at Christmes as at midsummer, and there is no necessity for the most timid or waskly to discontinue his morning bath because the summer weather is over. When the water sick below a tempera ture of six:9 degrees, let it be heated to that point, and theo us d, and there will still be a 'cola" bath, though of heated water. The daily stimulant effect of such a bath is so henceficial to the great maj nity of persons, and is of such market service in maintaining health, that it is important to have it widely known that a cold buth may be taken all the year round, provided cold is not mistaken to mean "at the temperature of the outer air." beat, the bath during the winter months is too often thought to be nomacly, while in reality it is truly scientific, and to bathe in unbeated water all the year round, whatever the temper ature of that water may be, is to prove one's self an inward clase of outward circumstances.

JAPANESE BABIES -"I Dever Saw people take so much delight in their children," writes Miss Bird to her new book on the Japanese. 'corrying them about or bolding their hands in walking, watching and ontering into their gomes, supp'ying them constantly with toys. taking them to pionics and festivals, and never being content to be without them. Both fathers and mothers take a pride in their childreo. It is most amusing, about hix every morning, to see twelve or fourteen men sitting on a low wall, each with a child or two in his arms fond ling and playing with it, and showing off its physique and intelligence. At right, after the houses are shut up, looking through the long fringe of rope or rattan which corceals the few instances, the canon, as we have it, has sliding door, you see the naked father bending had additions to or mutilations of the real text, his ugly, kindly fees over a gentle looking baby; and the mother, who more often than not has dropped the kimono from her shoulders eaversion will preserve in the main, will preserve folding two children destitute of clothing in her arms. The children, though for our ideas too gentle and formal, are very prepossessing in looks and behavior. They are little men and women, rather than children, and their old feshioned appearance is aided by their dress, which is the same as that of adul s.'

> FRANCE AND THE YORKTOWN CELEBRA-TION .- The fears expressed that unless the joint resolution inviting France to take an ac tive part in the Yorktown celebration should pass, complications might srise, were well timed, it appears, as it cow seems that the French government osonot act upon the matter until an invitation is extended officially. EIGETY MILES IN CIXIY MINUTES -At the Frauklin Institute last Week Mr. Barnet W. Le Van explained how a train can accomplish the distance between Philadelphia and New York in an hour. The distance between the two cities is in an air line from City Hall to City Hall 80 [3 miles. The proposed road will start at a point on Broad street, near Arch, and by an underground road already arranged. similar to the New York Central on Fourth avenue, will run out Broad street beyond the Junction road, thence in an air line direct to Jersey City. This new road will cross the Bound drook road and the Delaware river near Yardey, and the Pennsylvania road between Mon mouth Incline and New Brunswick; passes through Princeton, crossing the Baritan river about one mile west of Perta Amboy. None of the crossings will be at grade, and there will be but two curves of 10,000 feet radius. To accomplish this distance the engine must be capable at all times of developing sufficient horse power o perform 90 miles in one hour. On the trial rip of the Baldwin locomotive No. 5 COO, it ran at the rate of 81 miles an hour on an ascending grade, and no doubt on a level road it would have run 90 miles. Mr. Le Van explaned how he proposes to make a locomotive that can per-form the latter distance —Railway Review.

THE COLD WEATHER AND SUFFERING IN WASHINGTON .- A great deal of suffering exists among the poorer classes. The police have reported over a dizin cases of persons picked up frostbitten and exhausted, but none of the extent by the settlements of accounts which cases have resulted fatally. In one instance, a man and wife and two children were found huddled in one bed, and nearly frez in. The night lodging house is filled to its uimost espacity, and each police station at night swarms with unfortunate men, women and children who are forced to apply for refuge. A party of colored exodusters-fourteen in all-endeavoring to work their way back to North Carolina from Obio, are under police protection. When taken in charge, six of the children were nearly frezen, and the entire party was almost etarved. To relieve the intense soff-ring a public meeting of citizens will be held at Willard's Hall tonight. Ogsters have incressed in price, owing to the suspension of navigation, and it is rumored that if the cold continues, the coal dealore will increase their tariff also. To a great extent such a movement will be a great hardship to a large number.

IN ROYAL LIFE,-The Emperor and Enpress of Germany see each other as little as possible. It is somewhat ourious how few monarche do get on with their wive and the wives with the busbands, for they seldom alore each other. The Empr: 81 of Austria is seldom seen in scolety; and when out riding or driving ing the greetings of her royal admirer. She seldom attends the theatre or opera, bu: when the circus comes to town is then seen in her bex every night. She knows only one passion, and that is her love of borses and equestrianless pace around the ring, baving fresh relays of borses every few minutes. She has a place fitted up in the stable of her favorite charger where she can sleep if she feels so disposed, and where she frequently diotstes her letters to ber private secretary, while her favorite horse looks over from his stall and is patted fordly by his

A WARNING TO CURSING HUSBANDS .-Four years ago in New York, Margaret Ken nedy sued her husband, William H. Kennedy, for limited divore'. The ground on which the divorce was asked was a peculiar one, the ques tion arising as to whether abusive language without physical violence was sufficient, within the meaning of the starate, to entitle the plain tiff to such decree. On trial, judement was rendered in favor of Mrs. Kennedy, which the general term of the Superior Court has affirmed. The judges held that the defendant's foul and blasphemous language to his wife and his threats of violence towards her being habitual. it was the dair of the court to interfers when such threats raised reasonable apprehension of violence, and not wait until they were executed
